Apex HCM Supports North Fulton Community Charities Thanksgiving Food Drive

Roswell, GA. (November 26, 2018) – Today, Apex HCM proudly shared the generosity of its Roswell, GA employees with the North Fulton Community Charities by donating 8,241 canned and packaged food items for the Annual Thanksgiving food drive. Apex's contribution represented the 6th consecutive year of supporting North Fulton Community Charities and helping those in need during the holiday season. For the upcoming Christmas season, Apex HCM employees will extend their charitable support to the Toys for Tots children's Christmas toy drive.

Apex HCM CEO, Robert Digby commented, "Every day, the Apex team makes me proud in how they support our customers, but how they rally to support our local community and charities is above and beyond work. In fact, we have ingrained community service work as a formal part of our culture. Apex HCM now provides all employees paid time off to support local charities throughout the year."

Marty Hamby, President and Co-Founder of Apex HCM, reflected on the company's ability to support the community. "Back in the early days of Apex, we weren't able to be as active with local charities. It really makes me proud to see that we've not only built a successful business and become an industry leader but also a company of compassionate people who eagerly seek opportunities to help others." As the Apex staff continues to grow in 2019, the company anticipates broadening employee participation in charitable and community service work.

This growing community service support reflects a larger Apex employee base and a company commitment to social responsibilities, but it also reflects Apex hiring employees who are motivated by a heightened participation in socially responsible activities. Digby commented, "During my early career, community service was simply not a priority for businesses. I am pleased that Apex is quickly becoming a leader in social responsibility."
